St. Thomas college football team, holders of its third straight Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic conference championship, dominated the Associated Press' all-conference team today.

The team, selected from nominations made by coaches and several sports writers showed five St. Thomas players landing on the first team, and another Tommy sharing first-team honors with a St. John's player.

Most of the Tommies received almost unanimous votes from those participating in the poll. They covered the left side of the line, from end through center with Smith Eggelston, Don Simonsen, Jack O'Brien, and Pat McManus. Ed Krowka won the quarterback spot with Pat Alvey of St. Thomas sharing right end with Vern Fahrenkrug of St. John's.
